

Some Day

Thomas Marr: Remember him?

He was a surveyor for the Western Landmark Company, and in his travels into the territory we now call the Midwest to survey the village of Pike Creek.

Thomas Marr planned to live in this place. He included a liberal number of localities designated for public buildings, schools and market places. If the people of Pike Creek would have let Marr have his way there residents would be living in a model city today.

The fact is, two centuries later, the land is sold in lots and a new survey readied in narrower streets and less space for public buildings.

The little, isolated, charting village of 144 people it was to become is now a city of 10,000 and still will survive because that land is continually being purchased for new municipal buildings and facilities and that more and more other places are being developed.

We introduce Thomas Marr

again but forgotten because first to Southport and later to Kenosha.

What does all this mean to Arlington Heights and the new edition of the newspaper? The answer is: We don't know.

But we do know that a lot of very good things are about to happen and will survive because that land is continually being purchased for new municipal buildings and facilities and that more and more other places are being developed.

We introduce Thomas Marr

today because his planning looks so ideal 129 years in the future. We often wonder of people because so involved with the increasing cost of living that they forget we are supposed to be building for tomorrow.

Some day, we are distant as the stars, but in the meantime, we are in the present.
The Arlington Day will be looked upon as honored as Thomas Marr's or honored as the village of Pike Creek.

In the meantime, everyone at The Day will work diligently to hasten that day.

Vantage Point

... by Jack Vandermyrn

Launching a new newspaper venture is comparable to launching a ship. Both are started across the bows, shaved down to the water, and expected to float or sink.

Except for the missing bow she is afloat and has set sail. It is six weeks since The Arlington Day has had its editor and it remains to be seen if the venture will depend on several things. The editor and his two deciding factors will be our ability as professional news paper people to provide a product that the Arlington Heights community endures to serve.

The newspaper is a licenseless enterprise in the business world in that its acceptance can be measured in the very early stages of its birth, its advertising and circulation.

If the newspaper does its job well, it will be successful and promotes itself to its greatest extent. It will be a success.

No little part of this responsibility is the innumerable in which new columns reflect the community it endures to serve.

Statistics have brought the research, imagined and the results are in. Arlington Heights needs, wants, and expects to be a newspaper and all of personnel are available to produce a newspaper product so that the acknowledged community need will be met.

First, a mighty well be born up on some year old news columns and photo stories. The community is a growth community. It will need, there would be no need, to be a newspaper and what is that a newspaper's obligation to the community it serves?

A newspaper is a nonentity and no less than a minor reflector in the community it serves.

Its news columns are just that: columns of fact presenting both sides of every issue without interpreting opinion.

"Of course, any newspaper worth its salt will present its opinions, strong opinions, for community improvement, growth, health, in order to be valid in their presentation and worth of consideration, must be valid.

Their place is on the editorial page in articles clearly stated that the newspaper is not a newspaper and is the complete opposite.

It is the newspaper's obligation and responsibility to keep the community it serves

Roundup For The Day

U.S. Resumes Bombing Raids

SAIGON — Navy and Air Force planes attacked North Vietnamese today to end a 37-day pause in the bombing. The U.S. Air Force, which had been bombing North and South Vietnamese, was still in comparison with some previous bombing.

A U.S. military spokesman said the American planes can now fly last night's mission, aircraft carriers of the 7th Fleet. They encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire. One Navy plane went down in the South China Sea before returning from the raid. The pilot was rescued.

Snow Buries Upstate N.Y.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — This city lies virtually smothered this morning under a 32-inch-thick blizzard of snow.

Six inches of snow fell at Syracuse during the night. The overnight accumulation at Buffalo was estimated at 18 inches. With 20 to 30 inches of snow on the ground, Buffalo must tip its hat to Syracuse.

New England descends into the South, the snow has hobbled public transportation, reducing it to a crawl where it is moving at all. The entire Pennsylvania turnpike was closed, and scores of other highways and roads in the East have been buried under deep and drifting snow.

The Weather Bureau has forecast a hard freeze for all of Florida except the extreme south coast and the Keys.

Typhoon Smashes Samoa

SAMOA — An American island of the Samoan chain lies devastated and in a state of emergency today in the wake of a raging typhoon that hit yesterday. The entire island of the chain, which caused severe damage, was estimated to have cost the millions. The far, however, no storm-connected deaths have been reported. Communications with outlying areas still are out.

Kerner Denounces 14-B

Gov. Otto Kerner says the "right to work" section of the Taft-Hartley Act is hurting Illinois.

Speaking yesterday to the Chicago Federation of Labor and Industries, Kerner said: "I am deeply concerned of the section covering that point — 14-B. Kerner said wages in states that have passed legislation outlawing union shop averages nearly 29 cents per hour below the national average."

Kerner said: "Business firms in low-wage, 14-B states use this economic advantage against businesses in Illinois and other states to compete for contracts and jobs."

Ogilvie to Run For County Board

Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie is expected to announce Tuesday that he is a Republican candidate for member and president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

On Jan. 26, he will speak at a press conference for 10:30 a.m. at the Bremen Hotel.

He will issue a formal statement of his candidacy.

He will tell the press he is making the run because of "many leaders" on Wednesday, he plans to confer with other Republicans to issue a formal statement of his candidacy.

A ten-man singing group called "The Dirty Wards" had been invited to sing at the Bremen Hotel. The group, which is a semi-professional, will be on hand to entertain the public.

After the group's first appearance, Ogilvie said he had thought the "Wards" were great, but midway through the singing, he said, "I thought they were terrible."

One Arlington resident who heard the group sing said it started was philosophical about it. "Rather than," he said, than "they were terrible," he said, "they were terrible."

Ogilvie, who has been a member of the Cook County Board since he started in 1962.

Library

To Name New Trustee

Library trustees will name a new trustee at a special meeting at their next meeting, Feb. 24, at 7 p.m. at the Franklin H. Hendrickson Library board president.

W. Edward Evans, of this plant, has resigned to move to Oxford, Miss. at the Jan. 25 meeting. He was elected to the library board in 1964 and his resignation to Mrs. Hendrickson.

John H. Hennick was appointed to fill the vacancy. He was a member of the library board for a six year term ending in April, 1971.

State Draft Quota Higher

The Illinois draft quota for March 15 is 2,000 men, nearly 200 more than the February call. John Hamann, Selective Service director, said.

Mercury Over Zero At Last

Forecast For Tuesday

Winter's arctic blasts were rattling today pursued by a warm front.

The U.S. Weather Bureau promises that temperatures in the Chicago area will range from 10 to 15 above zero, a respite from the sub-zero blizzards in its icy grasp for more than 48 hours.

Local ice skating companies and skating resort were unprepared for the sudden surge of warm weather and some stations were unable to cope with an apparent flood of skaters.

Some service stations were unable to help drivers who had five hours, while others were "unable to offer help for a car that had been stalled" because some stations and garages were unable to remove telephone lines.

Chuck Randolph, owner of Chuck's Pure Oil Service Station, 7000 N. Elmhurst Rd., said impatient drivers who flooded their garages while trying to start their autos as much as to much as 10 minutes for stalled vehicles to get going.

Plumbers here reported yesterday that they had been busy all weekend as they battled to thaw out pipes and clear frozen fixtures.

Ed Keegan, 1620 W. North Ave., suggested that homeowners who had frozen pipes should turn on a faucet to a tap to clear the pipes.

The two young men were alone in the home at the time.

Sylvester's parents were not home at the time, but he left for a trip to California a few hours earlier.

Ed Keegan, 1620 W. North Ave., suggested that homeowners who had frozen pipes should turn on a faucet to a tap to clear the pipes.

The youth told police he carried "my Mother's gun," and then turned the gun on himself.

While he was in the garage, the gun was found in Keegan's garage, adjacent to his home, after an attempt to shoot himself.

One Arlington resident who heard the gun shot said he thought it was philosophical about it.

"Rather than," he said, than "they were terrible," he said, "they were terrible."

Some Day

Thomas Marr, Remember him.

He was a surveyor for the Western Immigration Company and in 1837 it was said that he had built what we now call the village of Pike Creek.

Thomas Marr played the lion, lioness and serf. He made a living as a surveyor, a localist designed for public buildings, a builder, a carpenter and architect. If he had not been of Pike Creek would have let Marr have his way there.

seventy thousand would be living in "the model city today."

The fact is, two years later, the government sold land and became a seller of land, a narrow street and less space for public buildings.

The Creek was thriving.

It had a population of 144 people.

It was to have Wisconsin's first brick school house, the first newspaper publisher

in the state.

Thomas Marr's original about a few other things he said.

We introduce Thomas Marr.

Local paper. It changed its name to Southport and later to Kenosha.

What does all this mean to Arlington Heights and the new newspaper? The answer is, "Some Day?" We do not know.

But we do know that a lot of villages and cities are divided with narrow streets that limit the growth of the community. The time is coming when we will need new municipal buildings and schools and that is why new municipal places are being developed.

We introduce Thomas Marr.

... by Frank E. Von Arx

today because the planning looks so ideal 129 years later.

We look wonderous, however, so involved with the association of the day that we forget we are supposed to be building for tomorrow.

Some day, not as distant as we think, we will be in the original town of the Arlington Heights. We will be looking out "Some Day?" We do not know.

In the meanwhile, everyone at The Day will work diligently to have that day.

Vantage Point

Launching a new newspaper venture is comparable to launching a ship. You are not certain that the boat will be shoved into the water and expected to float or sink.

For the launching has to be of champaign, that's how we will. With The Arlington Day — and the editor — it means embarking on a new and exciting assignment.

Whether we sink or float will depend on several things.

The most important of these deciding factors will be our ability as professional newspaper people to provide a service that the Arlington Heights community will accept.

Our newspaper is like a business enterprise in the best business sense in that it accepts responsibility for the welfare of the community it endeavors to serve.

Staff members have been compiled, the research committee is in the process of the initial and concerted areas of advertising.

If the newspaper does its job well and all of us personnel from editors to copy boys to produce the best possible newspaper, the Arlington Heights community will be served.

First, we might as well be up on our first year's journalism school principles. Just as it is a never ending task with the newspaper's obligation to the community it serves.

A newspaper is more or less a mirror reflecting the activities of the community it serves. It is the job of the newspaper just that ... columns of facts presenting both sides of every issue without interpreting events.

Of course, any newspaper of worth, like our own, is open to the public, opinions ... for community improvement. These opinions, in order to be valid, the presentation of the writer's point of consideration, must be so labored.

Then there is the editorial page in articles clearly labeled opinion. We have no objection to the news columns, but we do have a strong objection to the news columns remaining just that.

People have a right to know ... a right to know what is going on in their community. The newspaper has the responsibility of presenting all of the facts in a clear, unbiased manner and then letting the chips fall where they may.

It is the job of the newspaper to grow. Like a tree, it must be experiencing growing pains, many municipalities know that when the leaves begin to encrust the problems are encrusting.

It is the job of the newspaper to be a community to be as aware of the community's potential as of the pitfalls of progress.

It is the newspaper's obligation and responsibility to keep the community who are the financial base of the growth by providing the tax dollars informed of both sides of the story.

Equally as grave a responsibility rests on the shoulders of our readers. We welcome you to the Arlington Heights community. We hope to be your paper's news.

Our reader response will govern to a great extent the success of the newspaper produced. It's a well worn but applicable phrase that states: "Read The Day and you will receive a reward." In all things we will jealousy guard our readers.

Arlington Heights has prospered in the past. It has prospered in the future. Hundreds of dedicated citizens serve on countless municipal committees, constantly devoting their time without compensation to make this good a better place.

The Arlington Day now joins the ranks of those who have faith in this village and its future.

To this goal, The Day staff is dedicated ... its publisher is dedicated ... its advertising and editorial staffs are dedicated to working side by side with those officials in Arlington Heights who are molding this great town.

And we look forward to strong and informing the Arlington Heights community.

We hope you are pleased with the first issue of The Day. But let us assure you that this is only the beginning. For we intend to make The Day the greatest newspaper daily in the United States.

Why not? The Day launched ... what?

The Arlington Heights community, one of the fastest growing in the nation, has all the elements needed to support an outstanding newspaper.

It has the trade and commerce. But most of all, it has the press of the pitiful growth.

We intend to meet that need.

The Day will endeavor to be a well known factor in every home in this community.

Accordingly, it will be edited in a manner which will thrive in this community.

The Day will be the best day in the nation to be a newspaper.

The Day intends to be the type of newspaper which sells merchandise and services for the community's business enterprises. So it must be informative, entertaining and readable.

The management of The Day does not believe in newspaper only.

Our reader response will govern to a great extent the success of the newspaper produced.

It's a well worn but applicable phrase that states: "Read The Day and you will receive a reward." In all things we will jealousy guard our readers.

Arlington Heights, greetings from The Arlington Day.

Junior Colleges Are Booming

Rapid growth in the number of junior colleges is bringing the country to expect an "universal" 14-year education program.

Arlington Heights and surrounding communities have banded together in June College District.

Triton Junior College in Northbrook has been offering for the past two years evening classes for some 1,000 students. Located in Lincoln Park High School, Triton draws tax money from three towns — Elmhurst, Proviso and Leyden.

DePaul University has organized a junior college system for the past two years. The college has 1,000 students in its first year.

Many of these adult programs will probably be the forerunner of a 14-year education program for no other reason than the fact that college districts cannot afford to expand.

At the national level, California leads in the number (60) of community colleges with enrollment (400,000). New York has 67 schools with 70,000 students.

Benefit Ball Plans Revealed

"We have been announced for the first annual benefit ball of the Arlington Community Hospital, an extravaganza for 2,000 people who will pay $25 per person."

Dr. Constance S. Soter, executive committee chairman, said the benefit ball is scheduled for 8:30 p.m., May 14, at Arlington. The ballroom will be filled with cocktails to be served by the Post and Paddock, with dinner following.

Dr. Soter, chief radiologist at the hospital, said he organized the idea of a benefit ball about two and a half years ago.

"I was concerned about the hospital," he said. "Many persons didn't know many other persons who were interested in that a social event could bring them together."

"The idea is that our hospital, which is one of the finest in the area and to the nation, is not only a benefit more than financially from a variety like this."

The physician said many celebrities and prominent public officials already have accepted invitations. Lou Bresen's Band will appear.

Leaders of nine committees for the ball have been named. They are Book, Mrs. D. C. Book, tickets, Mrs. Frederick Hough, Jr.; food, John J. Woods; advertising, Mrs. Marion, Robert Paddock; public relations, Mrs. Robert Alford; public relations and special guests, John G.

Woods, special entertainment, Mr. and Mrs. William Ball, Mrs. William Ball, Mrs. William Pailey, and Mrs. Shirley Richardson and Edna Campbell.

At a social committee meeting Friday at the hospital, it was decided that no expense will be spared in making this the most successful social event ever held in Arlington. One of our main objectives is to start a tradition that will last as long as these committees."

Challenging New Job

JERILYN WATSON
Day Women's Editor

An Arlington Heights mother of four children, Mrs. Walter P. Dahl, 416 S. Windsor, is riding an elevator in the Cook County Circuit Court Building when two strangers begin a conversation that caught their attention.

"Who is that?" asks one.

"That's my husband," the other.

"He's one of those young lawyers -- aren't they?"

It was Mrs. Dahl, 416 S. Windsor, of the Cook County Circuit Court, Judge Walter P. Dahl, recalling the incident with a smile.

"We felt a little defensive until we heard the man's reply, 'Oh, I see. I see. I see. Of course, we were really proud.'

The family has been more than a little proud since Judge Dahl has accepted who is considered one of the most difficult judges post the pending judgment at Juvenile Court.

The court has jurisdiction over minors, who are defined as children, teenagers or retarded.

"We were anticipating our son's return from the service, my husband's acceptance for the job at the Juvenile Court," Mrs. Dahl said. "We were very excited, and thought it would be challenging. His decision to accept the job was a relief."

So far the judge's new responsibilities haven't changed the family's social life.

"We have a lot of friends who are still a major concern for Mrs. Dahl."

Her husband's wife is just like everybody else, she said.

"She gets up in the morning, and we have breakfast together, and she takes her children to school," Mrs. Dahl said.

Mrs. Dahl said the couple had been married 10 years.

They have three children, Jim, 15, a sophomore at Sacred Heart High School, and Daniel, 13, a junior at St. Viator, and Janet, 10, a student at Sacred Heart.

They are a typical middle-class teenage family, their mother said. When Jim played center for the basketball team in the fall, his parents were loud and regular roasters.

When Daniel was offered evidence of Judge Dahl's profession in his home, it was a shock to the parents.

The book is a gift from Daniel, who has been writing newspaper clippings about his career that have been collected by a proud wife.

Wife Judges a Career

Mrs. Dahl, 416 S. Windsor, keeps a scrapbook of newspaper clippings on the career of her husband Judge Walter P. Dahl. He was recently named a judge for Cook County Juvenile Court.

Knight Cagers Nearly Stumble

Prospect All Alone
Atop Loop Ladder

By Bob Casterline

Sports Editor

Prospect High School basketball team had the Mid-Suburban League basketball race this week, but just barely. The Knights never lost sole possession of first place with a graceful when-in-doubt decision.

Fading the lowly Maine West Warriors, who had won only one divisional game and dropped 12 games, the Knights seemed a click to romp happy to a fourth straight league triumph this Friday.

The Warriors had other ideas.

Transient Library Fee Up Tuesday

A non-resident library fee of $15 a year per family – an increase of $5 – will go into effect Tuesday at Arlington Heights Memorial Library. The library has a 25-cent per item fee at its branch at 1000 N. Elmhurst Rd.

Mary Lee Elliott, head librarian, noted that the accompanying increase in library fees has brought about a similar raise in non-resident fees. Palisade will increase its fee from $15 on Jan. 25 meeting.

to $15 on Tuesday, and Palisade recently put a $15 non-resident fee into effect.

Since May 1, 1965, over 5640 non-residents have checked out books at the library.

Legislative System
Film Is Available

A film depicting the legislative system of government is available to grade and high school youngsters in public and parochial schools in Arlington Heights.

Distributed by the office of the Illinois State Auditor of the state, the film is titled, "Spectacles of the House." The 16-movie color film was made possible by the cooperation of the Illinois General Assembly, when Powell and Farnsworth studios attracted nationwide attention and has been described in the press as "a valuable film recommended for use in junior and senior high school classes in government, Americanization and with adult groups."

Village Officials Meet Human Relations Group

Village President John G. Woods told members of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee that at the earliest opportunity he would be meeting with the group regarding the rights of all citizens will be upheld in the proposed project.

At the Committee's January meeting Woods outlined a seven-point program he said is being implemented by the village board of trustees, manager and police department.

The points he outlined were:

1. An established system of communications between local organizations and community leaders to ready the village

Classes Open in Boating

Boating enthusiasts can with the winter months to study up on the art of boating.

The Skokie Valley Power Squadron is sponsoring a series of six classes on boat handling. Registration is open until 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays at the Skokie Valley Yacht Squadron, Northbrook, and on Wednesdays at the Provo Yacht Squadron, William R. Williams of Arlington Heights is assistant director of the Skokie Squadron. Argus V. Bennett of Northbrook is commander.

Courses will consist of 12 weeks of instruction, including all aspects of the nautical tool equipment required for safe, fun and safe boating, as well as safety and chart work.

Examinations will conclude each course.

Classes are open to men and women, boat ownership is not a requirement. Instruction will be given by squadron members. The Squadron is a membership composed of veterans who complete the various courses.

Start if a "newer" in a minority family is immigrating.

Development of full information about the family, including its past and present, will be achieved peacefully.

Establishment of working relationships with community media.

Communication with neighbors in the area by selected officials of the board.

Establishment of communications with school and church.

Meetings with local retail outlet dealers to establish working relationships.

About 65 members of the Arlington Heights community are in the program, including Latin American church members, the Church of the Cross, the First Congregational Church, White and Jack Walsh, Walsh is the board's liaison with the community relations committee.

Participating in the meeting was Nick Shuman, community relations committee chairman.

Introducing Wood, Shuman said that Arlington Heights is bound to be swept by at least one major change in government, not the full stream.

Shuman explained that it was the purpose of the meeting to discuss the proposed changes in community relations.

Wood reiterated his stand that the rights of all individuals in the peace and welfare of the community must be protected.

He said that Village Manager Hansen has been given the task of enforcement and protection of the village, and that the police department will be given the same powers as the police force.

In remarks to the group, Shuman said that much consideration has been given to the possibility of a manager more in Arlington Heights. Steps have been taken to insure that the new manager, when he comes, will be achieved peacefully.

Wood said that the board has given a great deal of thought to its responsibility in dealing with the community and holds the same point of view as the committee on human relations.

Shuman asked Wood whether the board had received any special training in dealing with human relations.

Wood said that he has written to the village manager who explained that intensive training programs are given to the department and from outside speakers.

Hanson pointed out that no Arlington Heights patrolman is a graduate of the Chicago Police Academy and that in-department training is a continuous program, constantly in operation under the direction of the Police Chief William Calderwood.

Wood was asked from the floor if the board had made any specific policy statement on human relations.

Shuman responded that on this occasion, the board had made a position clear.

Shuman said that the village board would be prepared to deal with any human relations problem in the municipality.

Wood concluded by stating that his board would retain an open mind concerning official recognition of the human relations committee.

Shuman officially stated for the human relations committee that the board was unwilling to surrender any of their powers to the committee.

However, Wood said the board would be willing to make a statement from the floor that the human relations committee be given the same powers as the official educational study group on human relations.

The village president said he

5-Day Gym Ruled for Seniors

Physical fitness classes for high school seniors in Quincey 214 will not take part in meet state requirements. Seniors will attend physical education classes instead of twice a week, as now.

The regulation was approved at a recent meeting of the board.

Superintendent Hendre Schlesmeyer said the state code now requires students in all public schools to take part in a minimum of physical education courses daily.

The district's present program makes this regulation apply to all students except seniors, who spend three periods a week in a study hall, Schlesmeyer said. Even students out for three school years will be required to attend these classes daily, he added.

"Most educators feel the study hall is a wasted period anyway," the superintendent said.

Schlesmeyer pointed out that District 214 was the only district last year in the Inter-Sch

40 Bikes Awaiting Riders

Approximately 40 abandoned bicycles are available for riders, and the bikes, many in excellent condition, may be obtained free of charge at the village garage Monday in the Arlington Heights Police Department, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, according to Stewart Grant, village attorney. The bicycles will be viewed at the police department. Bidders must be at least 16 years of age.

Grant will open the bids at 1 p.m. Saturday at the village hall. Janice, and the village accepted the bicycles over the period of time the village has owned them and abandoned them.

Proceeds from the public auction will go to the Arlington Heights Community Fund. The police department urges bicycle owners to return their bicycles to the village from the finance director. This registration costs 50 cents. The registration provides a method of identification for police if the bike is stolen.

Automated School Lunchroom Approved

An automated school lunchroom.

"3000 can go in School Dist. 114 if a sixth grade school is approved in a referendum to be held in April," he said.

"There will be a row of hot and cold vending machines to serve the students," he said. The proposal was approved Jan. 24 by the school board.

Before the plan was approved, board members had discussions in the school and had the opportunity to test the automated food service and to taste samples of the proposed food.

Included in the approval by the school board was the fact that the high school had designed so that a food preparation room could be added to the building and placed in operation at a later date.

"Arthur Aronson, president of the school board, directed the administration to have the district to complete a list of the price and time required this type of food preparation," he said. The study was made available Monday.

One advantage of vending machines is that the cost is reduced by one-fourth.

Because vending machines supply most of the equipment for the automated food service, the cost is lower.

Students are offered a wider selection of food in vending machines compared with the cafeteria.

Other advantages include the probability of fewer district employees and minimum disturbance.

Arthur Aronson listed first advantages of the manual lunch service first, food is prepared by the cafeteria workers, second, the cafeteria workers receive a type lunch which would receive a balanced diet; third, the district would receive a balanced plus food and government reimbursement (not amounted to the cost of the meal); fourth, the school lunch provided no meal for the students, less expensive to students; and fifth, the cafeteria workers receive a meal with a plate.

Disadvantages, the board members said, were the following.

One was that a lunch would cost a student more each day for the same amount of food. He might buy at a manual lunch service, eat it at home and prepared the day before they are purchased.

A vending machine contractor recommended that one meal be served at a time, hot sandwiches and a tragic balanced meal plate could be prepared, but the cost, however, would not include dessert or milk. These could be obtained at a cost, the contractor suggested at additional cost. The plate lunch was suggested to be the best.

Hot sandwiches such as ham, burgers, etc. will be offered at a cost each. Lunches served by manual service at present cost 40 cents each. This does not include dessert.

Over 50 Club to Ask Board For Township Funds

Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling senior citizens of the over 50 Club this year will be asked to contribute to the Township of Wheeling Township for funds for support of their organization.

Club members voted "yes" to a motion made by Mrs. Ruth Hedges, to petition for a share of excess township funds.

Alfred A. Peters, president of the club, said, "Mrs. Ruth Hedges, to petition for a share of excess township funds."

At the club's annual meeting in April, the club voted to contribute $1000 of the club's $10,000 budget to the township.

Elk Grove High Seeks U. S. Funds

Parents of Forest View High School students will have a real treat on Saturday, Feb. 12, when the Teacher-Parent Council hosts a spaghetti dinner.

From 6 to 7:30 p.m. a regular-type school meal will be served. The cost is $1.50 for parents and $1.00 for students. Mothers and Dads will have the chance to find out the kind of food, the quality of work and the students under the government-rebated hotel program.

There'll be a choice of four entrees, including spaghetti, meatballs, roll, desert and beverage, with the cost to each parent and student $1.50.

McKately, 73 Forest L., Elk Grove, president of the Teacher-Parent Council, said:

"McKately urges parents to call the school. Her services as a reservation and service will be limited to the first 500. Parents can get a free admission ticket that night at the school. A short business meeting will follow the spaghetti dinner. About 500 p.m. parents may visit rooms where teachers will be present to answer questions from students and class work, said Dr. John J. O'Farrell.

Parents may attend the meeting and visit without having the dinner, Dr. O'Farrell said. Officers of the Council are Carl Bowen, 115 W. Central; Arthur White Jr., 431 Hawthorne; Robert Meader, executive director; and Mrs. Carl Berglund, 2004 Central; and Mrs. Shirley Meadows, secretary-treasurer.

Survey Shows TB Decline

Recent trends in county contact by the mobile X-ray unit of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanatorium show a decreasing number of new cases of the disease. During the past year, 2,336 films were taken in various locations throughout Arlington Heights, 43 percent of TB findings.

Through Oct. 31, 1964, 1,215 new cases were given. These revealed 1,746 new cases of TB, 1,000 of which were new. Those with doubtful results from the first X-ray were sent to the sanatorium for additional tests. Co-operation in the survey was given by the county office of Chicago and Cook County and the Christmas Seal agency.

Dr. Edward A. Pasek, field director of the mobile X-ray unit, Cook County organization said first X-rays only indicate that tuberculosis is present in a person. The figures are not actual active cases of TB.

"The figures are good," Dr. Pasek said. "It's well recognized. About 30 per cent of all new cases are reported for the first time for the first time during the annual survey."

2 Endless Assigned by Air Force

Two young Heights youth enlisted in the U.S. Air Force during the early days of Jan. 1965. Robert L. Nelson, James L. Erick, Air Force recruiter in Arlington Heights, enlisted Charles R. Kreier, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Kreier, 1709 W. Northwest Hwy. Kreier will be assigned to support staff training at the Air Force Basic Training Center, Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

Enlisting on Jan. 11 was Hugo D. H. Ben, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ben, 533 S. El Segundo. He will be trained at Lackland and will be assigned to support staff following his training period.

412 Homes Sold in '65

Since beginning of 1965 that 1,000 per year since 1958 have been exceeded by Robert L. Nelson, president of Robert L. Nelson, Realtor.

Nelson offices in Arlington Heights, Skokie, Wilmette and Mount Prospect listed 412 home sales in 1965, representing a $10,000,000 volume.

The three Nelson offices are located in the northwest. One firm is associated with the Northwest Area of Real Estate Board of Chicago, and the other two Real Estate Boards, the Northwestern Suburban Board of Realtors and the Moppe.

Garden Hints

BY FRED G. HEUCHLING
Editor, Mid-State Garden Guide

Winter evenings in February afford gardeners the time to plan for a good garden the following year. Develop an adventure garden, a rock garden, a water garden, some plants you have never tried before. For an exciting project, start a garden of amaryllis bulbs and watch it grow. Your garden supply store, or a catalog, will supply the stock, or he can readily order them.

Plant the amaryllis bulb in a flower pot about two inches deep. Use a good soil mix, half peat moss, all thoroughly mixed.

Allow the bulb to protrude above the soil for about one-half inch. Water it well and keep it moist. Water it every day and keep it moist. Water it every day and keep it moist.

The flower stem will often rise, flag, to be followed by a nodding flower. After a few weeks a glorious spray of four or more flowers will appear.

Plant the amaryllis bulb in a flower pot about two inches deep. Use a good soil mix, half peat moss, all one-half inch above the bulb.

Any of them will make a beautiful plant in white, pink, pastel red or striped pink.

At this time of the year the new garden catalogues are available, and if you will send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the catalogues of nurseries, houses and nurseries, at your request they will then furnish you with a free informative catalog.

Our Village in 1977-- As It Looks from Here

Roundup For The Day

Viet Nam Air Raids in 2d Day

SAIGON--U.S. Navy and Air Force planes sweep across North Viet Nam again today to bomb military targets in coastal areas. The aircraft strafe bridges, roads and other areas in the coastal region where roads were made yesterday.

At the same time the United States and its allies are bombing the North Vietnamese. The U.S. Congress must now consider formally inviting both North and South Viet Nam to session.

A spokesman in Saigon said the targets were below the 20th parallel, so-called "Hanoi-Haiphong Line" marking North Viet Nam's industrial heartland.

It also was disclosed that three U.S. planes--rather than the two previously reported--were lost in yesterday's attack.

In South Viet Nam today, U.S. Army cavalry troops combed their area of operations against Communist forces.

The Americans, teamed up with South Vietnamese forces in "Operation Masher," have killed an estimated 300 members of the Viet Cong last week. There was a confirmed body count of 400.

A campaign involving the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, the 101st Airborne and the 173rd Airborne, started yesterday with a final body count showing 94 Viet Cong killed.

Strategic Air Command B-52 bombers hit a suspected Viet Cong supply dump about 20 miles north of Saigon today. Details of the raid were not disclosed.

Higher Produce Prices Predicted

WASHINGTON--The cold and frigid temperatures that have lashed the nation over the weekend are expected to leave a legacy of high prices on scarce produce in the nation's supermarkets for the next few months.

The state's agriculture commissioner says, however, that a quick harvest could save the citrus fruits and sugar canes crops. To this end, Labor Sec. Willard Wirtz has urged the importation of 30,000 workers from the British West Indies.

It's hoped the midseason Florida citrus crop can be preserved by adding concentrated juice. Much of the fruit is reported to have damaged for use as fresh produce.

Ivy, Douglas Ask Krebco Tests

CHICAGO--The federal government and organized medicine remain convinced that the controversial drug Krebco has no effect in the treatment of cancer despite a sweeping acquittal of the drug's backers on fraud charges.

Meanwhile, Dr. Andrew Ivy, the drug's chief medical becker, has been joined by Dr. Sam Paul Douglas of Illinois in a call for a thorough re-examination of the drug.

A federal jury last week found Ivy and other defendants innocent of fraud in the Krebco case. Yesterday, the same jury returned innocent verdicts for Dr. Steven Durov, who discovered the drug, and the Krebco Research Foundation.

Altimeter Blamed in Air Crash

WASHINGTON--The Civil Aeronautics Board has blamed failure of a pilot to set his altimeter properly for the fatal crash of a private plane which killed an Illinois woman.

The plane crashed at Flint, Mich., last April 6, killing Paul Stoll of Glen Ellyn and his wife.

They were on route from Chicago to Flint and struck a power line while making an approach to the Flint Airport.

Panel of 3 Weighs The Future

Downtown Area Causes Concern

By JACK A. VANDENOEVER
Arlington Heights, 1971, will be a balance of fine single family homes, modern industrial facilities and super modern apartment complexes in a district featuring plenty of parking and may access over the western turnpike.

This is the picture painted by a three-man panel for members of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held last night at Miesner Junior High School.

Panelists were John G. Woods, Arlington Heights village president; Robert L. DeGraw, auditor and director of property management for the B-K Building Co.; Dr. Charles Hirsch, executive director of Paddick Hospital.

John T. Peters is the first subscriber to The Arlington Day. Peters lives at 1715 N. Verge and is a resident of Wheeling Township. He's the man who has been instrumental in the development within the community.

Today, a new daily newspaper in Arlington Heights, made its debut Monday in more than 10,000 copies. It will be distributed on a complimentary basis for the first four weeks.

More subscribers will be added. The Day immediately after the first anniversary will be the 100th subscriber made. Joe, 17, Peters, was one of them.

Carrie boy Jeff Stevens got his first paper. A carrier boy for The Day, Jeff Stevens, 12, of 1831 N. Verge, was the first boy to say hello to the No. 1 Day subscriber.

Jeff's mother, Mrs. Carrie Stevens, and their daughter, Linda, 5, had delivered a gift.

"President of The United States" made the initial call to him. Even though he doesn't have a rhyme long enough to look at the paper.

The book is being offered free to the first 1,000 subscribers.

Carrie boy Jeff Stevens is a carrier and is The Day of carriers, 217 S. Arlington Heights Rd. His telephone number is 256-7200.

Binding Books to Be New Class The Boss

Students at Arlington High School will have opportunity to learn book binding ranks. The class, which is a part of the Board of Education of School District 214 approved purchase of $1,500 worth of equipment to begin the training.

Warren Collier, the high school principal, is recommending the action said. "Business operators could expect to find other services to the district and the community such as book binds, grade books and school ribbon," he said.

He said the program could interest "drop-outs" to remain in school. "There is a market for bookbinders," he said. "Books need not be limited to DIA 214 schools, but could come from other schools, private schools, day care centers, and vocational schools.

He said in the first year, School Dist. 25 schools in the district high schools could provide retraining for 100 books a month.

He said the program needs an opportunity to perform as actual business operation. "After graduation, fall-time employment opportunities in this field are available," he said.

In plans for development of the work orientation program, the school will purchase work equipment needs. When originally approved, only $300 was set aside for chairs, photographs and vocational materials.

Restrictions on substance of the work orientation program, however, included a limit of $100 limit and that must be financed by taxpayers. These limitations were removed.

Cost of the equipment and accessories costing $424.

Cost of paper cutter at $300.

and a heavy saddle stiching machine at $500.

Drama at the Rail Station

A Commuter Pauses to Save a Life

He slipped crossing the tracks. The train, which traveled east and west, stopped and backed up to him. Suddenly a man leaped from a car on the station platform and yanked him to safety by the coat. The train was only 10 feet away. The incident at the Arlington Heights North Western station, which happened at 7:45 a.m. on Saturday, was reported to The Day by a witness, Mrs. Florence Growall. Mrs. Growall said an unidentified man was walking along the tracks just in front of the express to the Loop. "Suddenly he slipped and fell. He tried to pick himself up, but fell again," said Mrs. Growall. "Then a middle-aged man, a brawny overcoat dashed from a crowd of 20 other commuters waiting for the train and yanked the man who had fallen from the side of the track. "The man was only 10 feet from him. The fellow who rescued him risked his life. It was a heroic stand," Mrs. Growall said. According to Mrs. Growall's account, some of the commuters "showed much" reaction. "They merely stepped back when the man slipped the second time. I saw the whole thing from my car window."

I had just come from my sister's home this morning when I saw the train pass," Mrs. Growall said. "The fellow's legs were lying across the tracks. That man who rescued him must be a hero. I hope he is safe and has gone. He certainly should be congratulated. He's at least a hero!" exclaimed Mrs. Growall.

Des Plaines Pilot Critically Hurt

WAUKESHA — A Des Plaines man was critically injured last night when his plane crashed into a field about two and one-half miles from downtown Waukesha. DuPage County Sheriff's police said James Gillespie, pilot of a Cessna 172, was flying to St. Therese Hospital at Waukesha. Hospital authorities said Gillespie was suffering from head injuries and his condition was critical.

Yank Killed by U. S. Rockets

SAIGON — One American soldier was killed and nine others injured when a U. S. helicopter mistakenly sent rockets into a bivouac of the 1st (Air) Cavalry Division. The pilot of the helicopter accidentally dropped by a soldier on the ground as a signal to attack. The division was camped 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

19 Farm Workers Killed

MIAMI — Nineteen Puerto Rican migrant strawberry pickers were killed and 13 others injured Tuesday night when a freight locomotive hit a truck at a rural grade crossing near here. Two of the injured were in critical condition.

Heddie Hopper, Buster Keaton Die

HOLLYWOOD — Heddie Hopper and Buster Keaton are dead. Miss Hopper, the colorful gossip columnist of Illustrated, died Tuesday of pneumonia. She was 75. Keaton died of heart trouble at his home in the hills of the Santa Monica mountains. He was a silent film comedian in the era of Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd and Laurel and Hardy.

Carpetenter Again

MOLINE, ILL. — The son of the late Illinois Sen. of State Charles Carpenter says he will seek re-election to the state legislature. State Sen. Donald Carpenter, a Republican from East Moline, said he wants to give consideration to the problems of the state, not just the problems of the entrepreneurial political machine in Chicago.

Plane Ticket to Casablanca

CASABLANCA — The temperature was 56 degrees here today.

2 Men, Woman Implicated

Suspect Names 2 Accomplices

Arlington Heights police have charged two men with burglary of Monroe Drugs, 1828 N. Arlington Heights Rd. on Jan. 6, and the two men have been placed in jail.

Taken into custody today by Detective John C. Felt, 29, was Lewis William Felt, 26, who gave his address as the Cottontail Motel, 1100 Main St.

Felt was being held for investigation by Cook county police and was taken into custody by the Arlington Heights detective squad, who had been investigating the case in the county jail.

John L. Ingberman, 29, of Skokie, was charged with the burglary. Felt is the son of the evening burglar and implicated John Cottontail Motel owner, Duane Plaiss. His two accomplices, Felt said, were that Laredo Adams, 21, of Skokie, and John Lloyd, 21, of Buffalo Grove, took part in the robbery.

At the time of the robbery, Camille, 19, learned he was being held in the Cook county jail for the same offense of armed robbery and murder charges based on Felt's statement. Arlington Heights will file warrant against Camille for the same offense.

Mrs. Madson was taken into custody last night. She was charged with armed robbery and conspiracy. Both suspects were held in $2,500 bond.

In his statement, Felt said all of the robbery was planned and carried out by the burglar and his two accomplices. The burglar was identified by the place of employment, Ingberman, who was working at a local use.

It was said Mrs. Madson called Monroe Drugs and ordered

Art Classes Ease the Pain In Learning Those Lessons

James Waldron, 11, a fifth grade pupil at Kensington School, helps his class paint a large mural of an early American landscape.

Kensington School Report

Art for education is a method used by the method teachers at Kensington Elementary School to help pupils using their imagination to paint Art projects related to science, mathematics, history and English. The teachers encourage each child to take an active part in the class and to try to incorporate into the learning process as many of the pupils as possible, explained Mrs. Kathryn McElroy, principal. "It's an established fact that pupils who participate -- who are induced to participate in their studies -- retain more of what has been taught. And they have fun doing it," she said.

An art exhibition of pupils' work is now on display along the corridor of the first grade. Ernest LeBreuer's fifth grade class, for example, has painted a mural of an early American landscape. Other students in the class have painted small figures from old clothes, wood and yarn.

"It's fun," said Barbara Krause, 10, a pupil in Ernest LeBreuer's fifth grade class. "It's fun to paint." The mural figures were later used in a class play that highlighted a study of the period.

"The pupils seemed to identify with the period and for them this period of history came alive and real," explained Mrs. McElroy.

The principal said art instruction is not the only one designed to offer each child technical assistance, but each teacher is free to offer assistance over which he wished in a particular subject.

In Mrs. Marilyn Loken's first grade class pupils combined art projects with a study of mathematics and English.

Two of her pupils, Linda Lazar and Linda Loken, have helped their class construct a cardboard soldier. The toy, which is made of pieces of cardboard, was later painted by the pupils. Figure was made in a pin-up style, "Santa's Toy Shop."

Barbara Krause, 10, a pupil in Mrs. Loken's second grade class, Patti Fieravanti, 11, and her classmates have painted a series of abstract winter scenes related to their study of weather. To help them, the pupils have used a device to measure the spread water colors with a ruler.

Teachers at Kensington School say that art, considered as a means of expression, can help pupils from academics, who have come into use today as a device to interest pupils in lessons. And it works, the teachers insist.

Barbara Krause, 10, places a log into the arms of an Indian figure she and her fifth grade classmates constructed at Kensington School. (Day Photo)

Patti Fieravanti, 11, second grade pupil at Kensington School, adds the finishing touches to a sponge painting she made in connection with a study of weather.

Finds Appendicitis Safeguard

By Maxine Tyma
Day Staff Writer

A technique for early detection of appendicitis has been developed at an Arlington Heights hospital.

Dr. Constantine S. Soter, chief radiologist at Northwest Community Hospital, said that the number of deaths from appendicitis could possibly be markedly reduced if barium enemas were used to help diagnose suspected cases.

Dr. Soter told the 31st annual meeting of the Radiological Society of North America in Chicago last week. Dr. Soter said that more than 400,000 Dr. Soter said that more than 400,000 patients with no adverse effects and with earlier and more accurate diagnosis.

Doctors in the Chicago area will have an opportunity to learn the new diagnostic method over a tape-recorded program on television Saturday evening. The program also will be broadcast in the Chicago area, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Physicians may hear the program by calling 312-440-8000.

Dr. Soter said that more than 400,000 appendicitis cases occur each year from appendicitis and its complications. He said that he has used barium on more than 40 or missed diagnosis. In 18 percent of the cases, the appendicitis was detected by the physician. This rate has not changed since 1940, Dr. Soter said.

His innovative method involves sending a solution of barium enema through the rectum to the point where the appendix is located. In this way, during the x-ray examination, the roots of the appendix can be observed. If the appendix is normal, the appendix is to a normal outline. Appendicitis can be ruled out, Dr. Soter said. If the appendix is unable to enter the appendix, or if the outline of the appendix has been, or is going to be, ruptured, the rate is four per cent. If surgeons can operate before the appendix ruptures, the rate drops to one-tenth of one per cent.

"Earlier diagnosis before the appendix ruptures is our best hope to reduce the mortality of appendicitis," Dr. Soter said.

The radiologist has been working on the research for the past 10 years. Dr. Soter reported that there were no ill effects on patients when the barium was administered.

Ogilvie Makes It Official

Cook County Sheriff Richard Ogilvie was officially announced when he told a news conference he would seek office as president of the County Board of Commissioners.

Speaking at a news conference in Chicago, Sheriff Ogilvie said he would appear before the Board of Commissioners this evening to nominate himself as candidate for the county commissionership.

Sharing "adequate" funds for his campaign, Ogilvie said, "Politics has no place in law enforcement. I have had no place in law enforcement activities in my administration or in the sheriff's department."

Ogilvie said he will resign if he fails to get party endorsement.

With the threat of having police out of law enforcement have cost me political support," he said. "I am prepared to accept those consequences."

Ogilvie said that he would meet with some 30 Republicans in the county to discuss his campaign.

If Ogilvie goes on to the GOP ballot, he would face incumbent County Board President Seymour Simon in November.

Concurring in his Democratic opposition to Ogilvie, Sheriff Ogilvie said that this is an easy assignment. But I have had no endorsement from the sheriff," he said.

The sheriff credited his 1962 victory for sheriff to "substantial support from independent and Democratic as well as Republicans."

CATS Report Due March 23

The Chicago Area Teachers Association, Inc., CATS, will report to the Northwest Municipal Committee at its organizational meeting on March 23. No location for the meeting has been set, according to Arlington Heights Village President John G. Woods, president of the conference.

Hospitals On List for Approval

The Illinois Department of Public Health has given preliminary approval of federal grants for two new hospitals totaling $3,300,000.

Construction grants included South Suburban Hospital Foundation in Hazel Crest, Lemont, and the Illinois Hospital Association, receiving grants for other than construction.

Approve Hall As Voting Site

The Wheeling Township Board of Education in Northbrook, Ill., again will be the voting place for the June 14 primary election, for the 10th year of continuous use.

Township Board of Education voted to make the present available as a polling place at its meeting last night.

BY MARINE TOME DAY WRITER

Arlington Heights has had 25 years of postal service in the last 30 years, at least according to postal statistics.

In 1934, Mr. and Mrs. Virginia Dodge became postmaster, stamps sold for 3 cents post.

At that time, a few postal employees served a community of 4,000 people whose mail was delivered to the post office by a two-wheel hand cart and was distributed to 100 houses, 100 routes and one truck route.

Now 150 employees at the Arlington Heights post office service serve a community of over 44,000 people three times the size of the town when it was founded.

It is the post office that is the center of town, the place to meet, the post and distribute the mail.

"We have seen a notable increase in the volume of mail during the last 10 years,"

Marine Tome, postmaster, said.

"We are outgrowing our facilities. We have to work 16 hours a day, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Some of the mail is sent to the post office to sort the mail and distribute it."

Another Day in Life Of Grand Old Man

BY DAVID BREKKE

Staff Writer

Albert F. Volt, 95, is the grand old man of Arlington Heights, at 95 years of age. The obituaries in the paper are the village's new daily newspaper.

"I'm glad it's finally come. There's been a need for a daily newspaper in Arlington," said Volt, 95, with a smile. With a population of 42,000 residents, the town's large enough to support it," Volt said.

Volt, 95, is a foreign newspaper himself. In 1886 he peddled newspapers for the Chicago Daily News.

"The News cost 25 cents. I had to work 10 hours a day, 6 days a week for 10 cents a day," Volt said.

On his 95th day he headed an audience of 1,000 at a political power in the northwest suburbs.

Seated in a swivel chair next to a window, Volt said, "I'm 95 years old. Volt said, "I've had an active life for only going through eighth grade. But there were no high schools in those days, so we were a lot like a school," he said.

Today he wears a broad-rimmed Stetson hat. He has a trademark in 1935 when he visited his firm of Peter & Volt, which operated a foundry in Arlington Heights manufacturing iron castings for farm machinery.

"It's just an inherited trade," Volt said. "My father worked a lot and I just picked it up from him."

Albert Volt was born at 17 E. Central on Feb. 1, 1871, and attended Metropolitan Business College in Chicago. He taught school in the Arlington Heights Elementary School. He took his first job at $12 a month at the Chicago Tribune. He met the Chicago & North Western Railway. He had his job with the Chicago Tribune Express Co. and the Rock Island Line.

the firm name of Peter & Volt, which operated a foundry in Arlington Heights manufacturing iron castings for farm machinery.

He was secretary of the elementary school board from 1907 to 1909 and 1913 to 1915, and state representative in 1915.

Volt was instrumental in the planning and ultimate appearance of the Arlington Heights Elementary School.

He died in 1943.

Bonds at $5,000 In Theft Case

Attorney Will Start Court Action

At a preliminary hearing in the Arlington Heights division of the Cook County court yesterday, Judge James M. Felt and Mrs. Lillian Maden, wife of Mr. and Mrs. William Felt and Mrs. Lillian Maden, were arraigned by the Cook County State's Attorney on charges of being involved in a plot to burglarize the Jan. 6 burglar of Monaco Drugs, 1824 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Neither man nor woman were they represented by counsel during the hearing. Both were taken to the Cook County jail and are scheduled to appear at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 7, for a further determination of the case by the court.

Burglars Fail to Crack Safe

County Road Deaths Down During 1965

Burglars apparently managed to break into the home of Martin J. Kelly, 61, 1504 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., at 2:45 a.m. and 2:56 in 1964, according to the Illinois State Police.

William Kelly, owner of the Kelly's Liquor Store, 1824 N. Arlington Heights Rd., was burglarized yesterday morning when he opened his shop.

The safe withstood the burglar's assault and there was no damage to the safe or to the safe's contents.

The burglar used a wrench on a side door to enter the agency.

Det. Sgt. Maurice Engle said the burglar's tools were taken from the garage and a glass window in the cashier's office was broken.

The three-foot high glass safe was not damaged and the burglar left with no money.

The thieves opened one compartment but found no money. Another compartment was found to be empty.

Clothes Ideas May Turn Your Day Rosy

BY JERILYN EDWARDS
Day Women's Editor

The preschoolers are noisy and querulous. They are strewn throughout the house.

It's time to fix dinner, and it seems as though just finished the luncheon dishes.

You are in the laundry, decide you'd better spruce up for your husband, and then muster, "Oh, what's the use? I'm not a housewife."

If all this describes your home, chances are you're suffering from the "I'm not a housewife blues. To make you feel pretty and feminine again, a good designer has some nice, colorful new-to-home clothes.

Comfort tops are a must for home clothes, says Mrs. Hester Kopkind of Carol's Cafeteria, 1700 Kankakee.

"They're stylish - as well as machine-washable," said Mrs. Kopkind. "They don't shrink."

The tops, designed especially as accessories, come in a variety of colors and styles, including jewel colors, and cardigan, open and tiered styles, she said.

Volunteers Help Out At Hospital

The Volunteer Service Department at Northwest Community Hospital consists of 100 volunteers who contribute hours of service to the hospital working within various departments.

During 1965 the group of 362 members gave 10,000 hours of 42,184 hours of service and 203 team volunteers contributed 14,000 hours of service.

Mrs. James Mason, 902 S. Arlington Heights Rd., director of the volunteer service, said 100 volunteers were given gold for 500 hours of service.

Kathleen, Judy Simeone, Rollie, and Carol, all of Bellwood, John, Sean, and Linda, all of Bellwood, and Bonnie of Des Plaines polyester and cotton, blooming with spring flowers, are another favorite of Mrs. Kopkind's young homemakers, said Mrs. Tilla Mensching, owner of the Lori-Ann-Aztec Shop, 11 W. Campbell.

"These tops are no longer in style," said Mrs. Mensching, "but they have another extremely popular feature for the homemaker - the sleeves are rolled up."

For the woman who likes coordinated shirts in serviceable colors, classic Bermuda shorts that can be tucked in or out, stop just below the waist.

Another top that makes a good addition to the wardrobe is the shell, a sleeveless blouse with a jeweled belt. The blouse is made of shell and satin or brocade.

"The shell can be an interesting addition to the wardrobe, the traditional blouse," Mrs. Mensching said. "It looks good unbuttoned and can be slipped over the head."

Sheets are smart over stretch pants, she said. Always a favorite is the shell top, which is made in short (under 3 feet 2 inches), regular (3 feet 2 inches), and long (3 feet 4 inches) and solid colors with peach prints.

On and off-white wavy fabrics, and may need no pressing.

A perennial favorite with homemakers is the shell with straight-looks-fitting dress and "jumper" dresses that are made of shell and satin.

Mensching said. Spring styles are in the shell top and solid colors with peach prints.

Feel like this today? Some new-to-home clothes (see story) may be just what you need.

Hockey sticks, warm clothing and plenty of snow add up to an afternoon's enjoyment at Pheasant Park for (left) Gary Anderson, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson, 320 W. Rockwell, and (right) friend, Tom Newell, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newell, 714 W. Rockwell. Both are students at Arlington high school.

What could be more fun than skating on a Saturday afternoon? While the ice at Pheasant Park is frozen, nothing, say (left) Tom Wenzel, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Wenzel, 365 S. Harrison, and (right) Tom Spender, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Spender, 365 S. Harrison. Tom Wenzel is a third grader at Our Lady of the Wayside School and Tom Spender is a second grade pupil at Wengen School.
